St. Luke's Wound Management Center – Coaldale Physician Testimonial

Richard Gilbert, DO, Tamaqua Family Practice

Richard Gilbert, DO, Tamaqua Family Practice, has been practicing family medicine in the area for seven years.

When St. Luke's Wound Management Center– Coaldale opened in 2004, Dr. Gilbert was thrilled to have a sub-specialty facility for wound management conveniently located for his patients.

“Their service is unmatched and they consistently deliver great outcomes. I am also confident in my patients' continuity of care when I refer to St. Luke's Wound Management Centers. They coordinate all services and ancillary care, taking the burden off of my patients and me. It also doesn't hurt that they are conveniently located and work around my patients' schedules. They just make it easy for everyone,” he adds.

Dr. Gilbert goes on to say that when he turns one of his patients over to St. Luke's Wound Management Centers, he rests assured that the patient's plan of care is well defined and coordinated. He adds that he's continuously delighted by the progress his patients make, even with complex wounds and complicated co-morbidities.

“I commonly see diabetic wounds in my practice. These patients need the most coordinated care to ensure that the factors contributing to their wounds are under control, as well as healing the wound itself. I know that this is going to happen seamlessly at St. Luke's Wound Management Center – Coaldale,” Gilbert comments.

In addition to diabetic foot ulcers, Dr. Gilbert sends all of his wound patients to St. Luke's Wound Management Center – Coaldale. This includes patients with lower extremity cellulitis and edema, abscesses, abdominal cellulitis, spider bites, among many others.

“The team at St. Luke's does excellent work; they follow through and keep my patients and me informed every step of the way. They make sure things are happening appropriately and timely. I'm thankful they are here,” Gilbert concludes.
