

St. Luke's Occumed Resources

DOT/NON-DOT Random Testing Programs

Designed to save employers time and administrative costs, Occumed Resources DOT/NON-DOT Random Testing Consortium reduces conflict in the work place by conducting the selection process off-site.

Program features include:

- Random computer selection process selects for drugs and alcohol
- 12,000 collection sites nationwide — staff of accredited medical review officers
- Meets DOT requirements even if none of your employees are selected
- Access to specialists in all compliance areas
- Supervisor training and employee awareness education
- Quarterly and annual statistical summaries — letters to members verifying compliance
- Easy to join — membership activates discounts on other services
- Access to qualified Substance Abuse Professionals (SAPs) for referral, evaluation and treatment

Random testing selections are available for companies who wish to conduct their own individualized testing program.

Non-Regulated Random Controlled Substance/Alcohol Testing Programs

- Custom programs to comply with company policies for companies not mandated by the federal government
- Programs utilize guidelines established by the Drug Free Work Place Act of 1988.
